COMMENT OF
THE DAY

Dictatorship

MR John Rankin has told the House of Commons that Britain is maintaining a "dictatorship" in Hongkong. Where did he get this absurd notion? It is no use saying that he has been told this by a politically ambitious but frustrated minority group in Hongkong, because although he probably has, many people who ought to know better still peddle that silly wisecrack that we have here a "benevolent dictatorship".

It is a smart way of describing the colonial government system which incidentally few in Hongkong want changed. Do we need proof of this? When a delegation recently went to London to petition the British Government to retain Sir Alexander Grantham as Governor for another term, they took with them a volume containing the signatures of half this Colony's population.

AND what happens at election time in Hongkong—of the 19,000 entitled to vote, 6,000 bother to turn out—and more than two-thirds of the number just couldn't care less. This touches on another point which Mr John Rankin raised in the House yesterday. He asked when the Hongkong Government proposed to extend the franchise. The point is: has Hongkong demonstrated that it wants any extension? The answer can only be "no".

But why does this Colony's government continue to be described—facetiously or cynically—as "benevolent dictatorship"? True, we have an appointed Governor responsible for the administration of this Colony. True, he knows Hongkong well, its problems thoroughly, how to deal with people in all walks of life. He has done it so well that the Indian Prime Minister, Mr Nehru, has named him as one of the best administrators in the Far East. But does this make him even "benevolently" dictatorial?

HONGKONG has an executive council, a legislative council and an Urban Council to which eight members are elected. It has the best judicial system in the world. What ground then is there for the word "dictatorship" to be used even as a facetious euphemism?

What does "dictator" mean? It means an absolute ruler. The Oxford Dictionary goes on to say "usually temporary or irregular, of a State, especially one who suppresses or succeeds a republican government; person with absolute authority in any sphere". And among the meanings of "absolute" in the sense in which it is generally associated with dictatorships are "unrestricted" and "ruling arbitrarily".

THAT is not what Hongkong people mean when they talk of a "benevolent dictatorship", but it is obviously the impression that ignorant people abroad will get from Mr John Rankin's cheap and completely unjustified sneer.

One more point—even at the risk of being accused of being humourous—the term "benevolent dictatorship" contains a clear contradiction which is probably the reason why it has become such a silly aside. A joke is a joke, but when some ignorant MP begins to bandy it about as a serious statement of fact, then it's time we stopped being smart—or coined a more factual description of a system of Government that probably less than one per cent of the population want changed.

HK COTTON INDUSTRY ATTACKED

MP's Demand For Minimum Colony Wage REFUSED BY MINISTER

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT

London, June 27. THE Government has refused to enforce minimum wage rates for Hongkong to block the flow of cheap cotton goods into British markets. Mr J. D. Profumo, Civil Under-Secretary, told the House of Commons today it would be improper to do this "simply to protect a United Kingdom industry."

Nato Immune To Surprise Attack

Rome, June 27. Supreme Allied Commander General Lauris Norstad declared today that it is now "operationally impossible" for the Soviet Union to knock out Western Europe's airpower in a single surprise attack.

He said that immunity from surprise assault came as a result of an intensive programme to build and disperse Nato airbases and a tightening of the alliance's early warning radar net.

Norstad spoke at the closing session of the Atlantic Treaty Association's annual meeting here. He said his Command has upped the number of bases available to it from 29 to 104 in six years.

He said the Alliance now has a 24-hour a day co-ordinated radar net in operation.

"It is now operationally impossible to knock out our airbases in a single surprise attack," Norstad said.—United Press.

CANTON TO BE ART CENTRE

Paris, June 27. The Chinese Government is preparing to build up Canton into an art centre, the Governor of Kwangtung Province declared at a writers and artists forum in the South China city today, the New China News Agency reported.

A school of fine arts and a conservatory of music would be established in Canton this year, Governor Tao Chiu said. A drama school was expected to be established during the second five-year plan period.

The new Canton film studio would be completed during the 1958-62 period, he said. Other projects to be built in the same period would include additional theatres for modern drama, folk art and acrobatics, a music hall, an art studio and a children's theatre.—France-Press.

In Saturday's China Mail

Socialist Mr Frank Allaun stated that the home Government should be protecting the introduction of minimum wage in Hongkong textile mills.

"Imported by underpaid Hongkong workers from the flow of cheap cotton goods into this island," he said.

However, the Government is considering how to deal with the pressure of cheap cotton goods on the country.

The Minister of State at the Board of Trade, Mr Deric Walker-Smith, the President of a Board of Trade was consulting the matter when he was joined by two Socialist members, Mr Wilfred Burke and Mr Ernest Thompson.

Mr Burke said the Minister to Mr Deric Walker-Smith proposed to limit the flow of cheap cotton goods into this island from India, Pakistan and the Far East.

Mr Thompson said that the textile industry in India, Hongkong and Pakistan textile industries, suggested by Sir Anthony Eden a year ago.

He urged the Government to "in relation to textile goods, free imports of cotton yarn and cloth" from these three countries.

Revolutionary Group Smashed

Tok, June 28. China announced today its security forces have arrested a counter-revolutionary group striving for the overthrow of the Peking government.

The announcement was broadcast today by the Chinese People's Radio to Japan.

It said a counter-revolutionary group headed by Tiao Kung-shan was arrested in a Nanjing file mill.

It said the group was working in the mill as workers to trap groups. They not only arrested the leader of the group, which was called the "Red Flag Party" according to reports from Chinese newspapers into English, but also seized documents and other materials.—United Press.

PROPAGANDA CAMPAIGN TO COMBAT SMOKING HABIT

London, June 27. THE Government announced plans tonight for starting a nation-wide propaganda to inform the public of the dangers of smoking.

This action followed publication today of a top-level report linking excessive cigarette smoking to cancer of the lung.

The report by the Medical Research Council, the Government's advisory body on health, declared that cigarette smoking was the principal factor in the large increase in the incidence of lung cancer in Britain over the 10 years.

Mr John Vaughan Morgan, Parliamentary Secretary to the Ministry of Health, told the House of Commons: "Once the risks are known everyone who smokes will have to measure them and make up his or her mind, and must be relied upon as a responsible person to act for the rest."

The Government feel that it is right to ensure that the latest authoritative opinion is brought effectively to public notice, so that everyone may know the risks involved in smoking," he said.

Local Authorities

The Government now proposed to bring the report to the attention of local health authorities and to those responsible for health education.

The report noted that the increase in lung cancer was out of all proportion to other forms of cancer and had occurred not only in old age.

Among males it accounted for one in 18 deaths at all ages; in females it was one in 103 deaths. Highest mortality rate from lung cancer in investigations carried out in Britain and the United States was in cigarette smokers, second highest in pipe smokers, lowest in non-smokers.

The report offered some hope to smokers in their early forties. By giving it up now they might possibly reduce their chance of developing cancer by half.

BEATING SINGAPORE STRIKERS

Singapore, June 27. Shipowners today used hundreds of lighters in an attempt to beat a "go slow" strike on the Singapore waterfront.

Lightermen and dockers belonging to four unions are refusing to join the "go slow" called by the Singapore Harbour Board Staff Association, claiming 7,000 members.

Several ships due to have left Singapore today with export cargo for Britain and Southeast Asia have been delayed.

The Corfu with 900 tons of cargo from Britain was today moved to the outer roads to complete unloading before sailing for Hongkong.—Reuter.

BIG US TROOP WITHDRAWAL FROM JAPAN

Washington, June 27. Secretary of Defence Charles E. Wilson said today the United States would withdraw 25,000 to 30,000 troops from Japan by Christmas.

Wilson emphasized that the plan to withdraw United States ground forces from Japan "was not a sudden decision" but part of a long range programme to cut US troop strength there while the Japanese built up their own forces.

Announcement of the withdrawal was made in a joint communique issued last week of the conclusion of talks between Prime Minister Nobusuke Kishi and President Eisenhower.

Wilson declined to say if air force units would be withdrawn from Japan soon.

"He acknowledged, however, that the Japanese peace treaty provided for the eventual withdrawal of all US forces.

Wilson said that some stationed in Japan would be sent home and that others would be deployed in the Far East area.

The Secretary said that the decision was made some time ago to supply American forces in Korea with modern arms. He said he hoped that eventually it would be possible to equip all US forces with the same kinds of weapons but that it took time to do so.—United Press.

Railway Loses £57m

ROBERTSON SEES TURN OF TIDE

London, June 28. British Railways lost £57 million last year, according to an announcement by the Commission chairman, Sir Brian Robertson, published here today.

But Sir Brian told a press conference that he hoped to be able to look back on 1959 as the turning of the tide.

The Commission was near agreement with unions on a plan for dealing with redundancy which resulted from railway modernisation.

The record growth of passenger traffic seen in 1956 had continued this year—reflection of the benefits of modernisation—and freight traffic was being organised in a promising manner.

Main causes of the deficit were capital investment and a price freeze to offset inflation in the country's economy.

British Railways' total accumulated debt now stands at £127 million.—Reuter.

Flight To Freedom

Vienna, June 27. Two Czech reserve officers flew an old single-engine sports plane to Austria today in a flight to freedom.

The two men "hedge-hopped" the 200 miles from Prague to Tulln airbase near here and asked for political asylum.

First-Lieutenant Jaroslav Kostelnik, 28, the pilot, and 30-year-old Lieutenant Bruno Weber, co-pilot, told Austrian officials they hoped the ground over Czech territory "to give the impression we were on a training flight"—United Press.

Hurricane Havoc

New York June 27. A 105-mph hurricane tore into Texas and Louisiana today, putting 75,000 persons to flight, killing 10, injuring at least 100 and causing damage that will total millions of dollars.

Hurricane Audrey sank boats, drove a 400-foot tanker aground, washed buildings into the raging ocean and isolated towns and resort islands.

Many towns and cities, including Fort Arthur, Beaumont and Orange, Texas, and Houston, Texas, the biggest city in the South, were hit either by the hurricane or the gales on its fringes.

But Lake Charles, 30 miles inland and about 30 miles east of the Texas border, apparently suffered the worst. The Civil Defence Office estimated property damage at least $100,000,000.—United Press.

HK FILM APPLAUDED

Berlin, June 27. Cathay Film Production Limited, of Hongkong, today presented "The Valley of Lost Souls" at the international film festival.

The black-and-white film won the applause of the public for its fine acting, especially of Miss Lin Dai in the leading part.

The story concerns a young country Casanova who leaves broken hearts all around him. Yen Chuen plays the lead as well as directing.

It was the European premiere of the film and the first ever Hongkong contribution to the Berlin Film Festival.—Reuter.

London, June 27. Sir Winston Churchill's journalist Sir Randolph Churchill quit Lord Beaverbrook's Evening Standard today complaining he was not allowed to write as he liked.

RANDOLPH CHURCHILL

The Standard's refusal to publish a Churchill column about wire-tapping proved that restrictions existed in spite of the journalist's claim that he did not, in a letter to publisher Lord Beaverbrook, Churchill said he regretted resigning but that he continued to write for the paper "would smack of false pretence and be almost impossible to stand upon the public"—United Press.

FORMAL REQUEST FOR UN TO RECONVENE

United Nations, June 27.

The United States today formally requested that the United Nations General Assembly be reconvened on the Hungarian question "as soon as possible" or "as soon as practicable".

Both phrases were contained in a letter from the US delegate, Mr. Henry Cabot Lodge, to Prince Wan Wai-hingyuen of Thailand, President of the 11th General Assembly which went into recess last March without formal adjournments.

Although diplomatic discussions on the timing of a resumed session on Hungary continued, there appeared little likelihood that the Assembly would be reconvened before September, immediately prior to the start of the 12th annual session, scheduled for September 17.

Under the recess resolution, Prince Wan, in consultation with the Secretary-General, Mr. Dag Hammarskjöld, and the 16 other members of the Assembly's Steering Committee, may call the 81-nation Parliament back into session "as necessary" to resume debate on the Hungarian or Suez issues.

Prince Wan is in Bangkok and Mr. Lodge's letter was immediately transmitted to Thailand.

Kashmir Problem

Mr. Hammarskjöld leaves tomorrow for Europe. He plans a three-day holiday in his native Sweden, whence he will travel after arriving on Saturday at Copenhagen. He will go to Geneva on July 3 for the summer session of the Economic and Social Council and plans to spend two weeks there.

Deliberations on the date for reconvening the Assembly will be conducted through diplomatic channels.—United Press.

EX-JAGAN MAN TO STAND

Georgetown, June 27.

Mr. Sydney King, Minister of Communications and Works in the deposed Jagan Government, said today that he will contest British Guiana's next general elections as an independent.

The ex-minister, who resigned recently from the executive of Dr. Cheddi Jagan's People's Progressive Party, said: "My outlook makes it impossible for me to submit myself to the rigid decisions of any political party."

The PPP, led by Dr. Jagan, came to power in elections in 1953, but was dismissed later the same year because the British Government alleged it was attempting to establish Communism in the colony.—China Mail Special.

Warning Of Re Infiltration A Worst Dange

By HAROLD GUARD

London, June 2.

The Australian Prime Minister, Mr. Menzies, emerged as the champion of a ted stand against Communist expansion during the third and fourth plenary sessions of the Commonwealth conference here today.

Conference sources said the meeting continued its "general discussion of the international situation" with particular reference to the Middle East at today's sessions.

They said it was a continuation of yesterday's opening sessions, when Mr. Menzies initiated a move for the conference to state its views in explicit terms.

Support

The Menzies' move, the sources said, has had the voiced support of Mr. John Diefenbaker of Canada, Mr. Hussein Suhrawardy of Pakistan, Mr. Eric Louw of South Africa, Mr. Tom Macdonald of New Zealand and, contrary to expectations, Dr. Kwame Nkrumah of Ghana.

All these speakers at the conference warned that Communist infiltration in Africa and the Middle East was the greatest danger to the free world today.

The Law Minister of Ceylon, Mr. M. W. H. de Silva, joined with Mr. Nehru in deploring the production and tests of nuclear weapons. The British Prime Minister, Mr. Harold Macmillan, told the conference that the only reason for British producing and testing nuclear weapons was to ensure that they would never have to be used.

Mr. Suhrawardy agreed with the Indo-Ceylonese line that relations with the Soviets could be improved through economic means but he stood unequivocally on the need for military preparedness as a defence against Communism.

Review

Conference sources said the review of the international situation would continue at the fifth plenary session tomorrow, when the emphasis would be on Southeast Asia and the Far East.—United Press.

The Russians have agreed to pay dollar fees and rouble expenses while the American stars are here.

Hurok said Russians agreed to send a Bolshoi Theatre Opera and ballet troupe to the United States in the spring of 1958 in exchange for a tour of the United States by the Bolshoi Opera and ballet troupe.

Hurok also booked American tours of the Bolshoi Opera and ballet troupe in the autumn of 1958.

BANNING OF TESTS A NUISANCE

—Charles Wilson

Washington, June 27. Mr. Charles E. Wilson, United States Secretary for Defense, said today that the banning of tests of new atomic weapons would be a "nuisance, but it would not stop the business."

Mr. Wilson made the comment in answer to a question at a press conference.

He also said that the effect of a suspension on the United States weapons program would be to "slow it down," adding that was not one of his problems. He said it was in the hands of President Eisenhower and Mr. John Foster Dulles, the Secretary of State.

Mr. Wilson said the objective of disarmament should be a reduction in armaments rather than some of these other technical approaches to it. "The banning of tests of new atomic weapons will just be sort of a nuisance, but it would not stop the business," he said.—Reuter.

ATOMS FOR PEACE

The centre would fall under President Eisenhower's atoms for peace programme.

The United States is prepared to provide $20,000,000 toward construction of the centre provided that "mutually satisfactory arrangements" can be found with other nations, a State Department announcement said.

The money for the centre would come from the $100,000,000 Asian economic development fund which congress approved for the fiscal year 1958.

BROOKHAVEN REPORT

The three-day meeting next month will consider a report worked out by the Brookhaven National Laboratory suggesting where the regional centre should be located.

The Brookhaven report said the Color by Powers probably would not initially have available the necessary scientific and administrative personnel and therefore "special attention" would have to be given to meeting top-level staff requirements, the State Department announcement said.

Invited to the meeting were: Australia, Burma, Cambodia, Ceylon, Ceylon, India, Indonesia, Japan, Laos, Nepal, New Zealand, Pakistan, the Philippines, Thailand, the United Kingdom and Vietnam.—United Press.

ACQUITTED BRITONS TO LEAVE

Cairo, June 27. Mr. Stanley Pittuck, one of the Britons acquitted in the Cairo spy trial last Saturday, "will leave Egypt within 48 hours," a spokesman of the Ministry of Interior said today.

Mr. Pittuck, 45, of the Marconi Radio Telegraph Company of Egypt, was acquitted on Saturday with John Thornton Stanley, 40, of the Prudential Assurance Company. Mr. Stanley is also expected to leave Egypt in the immediate future.

MILLIONS OF DEAD FISH IN ARABIAN SEA

Rome, June 27. The United Nations Food and Agriculture Organization announced here tonight that many millions tons of dead fish, perhaps equal to the entire world's catch in a year, are floating in the Arabian sea, according to a report from a Russian ship.

The report had been relayed from Moscow by Professor P. Molisev of the Soviet State Institute of Oceanology and Marine Fisheries.

The report claimed that over an area of 77,000 square miles west of the Laccadive Islands, off the west coast of southern India, "there was about ten dead fish to the square yard."

The name of the Russian ship from which the report was received was not given.

Mr. Taiwo Laevastu, a Food and Agriculture Organization oceanographer, said mass death of fish occurs from time to time in many parts of the world.

"The present catastrophe may have been caused by a layer of water known as the tropical subsurface oxygen minimum," he added. — China Mail Special.

Successful Flight For New Plane

Buffalo, June 27. Bell Aircraft Corporation's X-14, new jet-powered VTOL (Vertical Take-off and Landing) airplane, has successfully completed initial flight testing, the Air Force said today.

The X-14, powered by two jet engines, is designed to take off vertically in a conventional horizontal position, shift to forward flight and land vertically, eliminating the need for a runway.

The X-14 differs from the so-called "tail-sitter" VTOL airplanes because it can operate without the help of ground handling equipment to position it for take-off.—United Press.

SOVIET NOTE TO BONN Atomic Rearmament And Reunification Irreconcilable

Moscow, June 27. Russia told West Germany today that claims for atomic rearmament of her forces and for reunification of divided Germany were irreconcilable, according to brief extracts from a new Soviet note available to diplomatic sources here.

The note was handed by the Soviet Foreign Minister, Mr. Andrei Gromyko, to the German Ambassador, Dr. Wilhelm Kasch, Russia also charged the West German Government with imposing political conditions for a disarmament agreement, the sources said.

DEMANDS

The note was a reply to a West German note of May 23 rejecting Soviet demands that she renounce atomic weapons for her forces and refuse to allow atomic weapons to be stationed on her territory.

West Germany also called on Russia to help prevent an arms race by co-operating with the Western powers at the current disarmament negotiations in London.

GRAVE DIGGERS

In an eight-page outline of the Soviet viewpoint on atomic weapon bases, it said those who favoured German atomic rearmament would be regarded by history as the grave diggers of German reunification.

To claim West German atomic rearmament was irreconcilable with reunification, it said, and reminded West Germany that Russia was one of the four powers which pending a final peace treaty had a special responsibility for seeing Germany did not become a threat to world peace.—Reuter.

INDIANS PROTEST BATON CHARGE

Johannesburg, June 27. Leaders of five organisations sent a joint telegram today to the Justice Minister, Mr. Charles Swart, protesting "in the strongest possible terms against a police baton charge" on an Indian torchlight procession here last night.

This telegram, and another sent by the Transvaal Indian Congress, called for the appointment of a judicial commission of inquiry into what the Congress described as "an unprovoked, attack by police on men, and children."

POLICE DENY

Top police spokesmen today denied that there was any clash between police and the demonstrators, who were marking the end of a "day of demonstrations" against racial separation laws, or that the police carried out baton charge.

But leading newspapers stuck by their version of events saying there was baton charge, that Indian demonstrators were struck and some were injured. The Johannesburg Star said two were in hospital and one youth was still semi-conscious this afternoon.—Reuter.

FRANCE WANTS EGYPTIAN COTTON

Cairo, June 27. An Egyptian Finance Ministry spokesman said today "Egyptian banks" in France had approached Egypt for the purpose of buying four million Egyptian pounds worth (about $4,100,000 sterling) of Egyptian cotton.

It was the first move for a limited resumption of Franco-Egyptian trade which was suspended after last autumn's intervention in Egypt.

The cotton would be purchased by France in exchange for goods obtainable from the dollar area. The spokesman said his Ministry was studying the proposal.—Reuter.

ARTHUR MILLER APPEALS

Washington, June 27. The lawyers of American writer, Arthur Miller, husband of Hollywood film star, Marilyn Monroe, today asked United States Federal Judge, Charles F. McLaughlin, to quash the verdict of "Contempt of Congress" given against Miller, and to acquit him completely.

Judge McLaughlin passed sentence against Miller on May 31 for twice refusing to disclose to a congressional investigating committee the names of Communist writers who attended meetings of the American Communist Party with him in 1947.

Miller's lawyers said their client's case was identical with that of trades union agent, John T. Haskins, whose conviction of Contempt of Congress was overruled by the US Supreme Court on June 17.

Judge McLaughlin said he would examine the request and give his decision tomorrow evening.—France-Press.

NO LET-UP IN MALAYA

Kuala Lumpur, June 27. Lieutenant-General Sir Roger Bower, Director of Military Operations, said today there was no let-up in the war against Communist terrorists even after Malayan independence had been declared.

Addressing villagers in Kulim, Bower emphasised that the Chief Minister, Tengku Abdul Rahman, had declared that he would not meet Malayan Communist Party Secretary, Chin Peng again to discuss peace terms.

"If Communist terrorists tell you there will be another peace talk after independence, don't believe it,"—France-Press.

Barbican, June 27.

Panama Canal Authorities said today that the Canal's water supply is near the critical stage as a result of an unprecedented two-month drought.

The captain fled from a phantom of the sea

"After course," he shouted while the roared.

BOOKS

by ROBERT PITMAN

WITH every canvas taut and timbers shuddering the great sailing ship swept on through the night. America's Atlantic coast was more than 1,000 miles behind. The fog had lifted. Fierce winds had cleared every rag of cloud from the black sky. But below in his cabin bearded Captain Urquhart could not sleep for fear.

Every time he shut his eyes the same frightening scene hovered before him. He could see a huge cliff rising out of the ocean. He could see his ship racing blindly towards it. He could almost feel the shock as the ship crushed itself to splinters.

Wind moaned

Captain Urquhart opened his eyes. His face was cold with sweat. He sat up and tried to tell himself what nonsense it was. How could there be a rock in mid-ocean? Few places on earth were so far from any kind of land. Even the sea-bed was more than a mile away, down below beyond the reach of light.

He lay back, and again the vision appeared. The walls of his cabin trembled as the ship sped faster. The wind moaned in the rigging.

But Captain Urquhart could hear something else. He could hear the words which another seafaring man had once murmured to him: "They call it the Rock of Barenetha," the man had said, "It is in mid-Atlantic. Smart folk say it is just a legend. But I have seen it. Cone-shaped it is, and barren."

At most times there was nothing superstitious about Urquhart. On his chart he had noted the position given by the man. Then he had forgotten about the legend for over four years.

Now out of the night those words had returned. He took out his old chart. He peered at the dot. He had made with his pen four years back. He looked at his present bearing. Suddenly he realised that, if Barenetha Rock existed, his ship was making straight for it through the darkness.

It was enough.

He clambered up on deck. "Alter course," he shouted, while the wind roared, "Southeast by East till daylight."

With chilled hands the helmsman tugged at the wheel. The big square sails flapped, then filled again. The ship creaked and veered on its new course.

Climax near

Things were nearing the climax: the climax of perhaps the most amazing of all true stories of the sea.

It was November 1873. Now, for the first time since, that story is told again with fascinating detail in "Barenetha Rock," by Stanley Rogers (W. H. Allen, 18s.).

It is the story of three ships and a legend.

THE LEGEND We have already heard. It is the legend of Barenetha Rock.

THE FIRST SHIP we have already seen. It is Captain Urquhart's ship; its name—the Trimountain.

The Trimountain sailed a day late, William Urquhart having refused to sail on a Sunday. The came Urquhart's strange panic and his sudden change of course.

But there let us leave the Trimountain as it turns miles off its route to avoid the terror of Barenetha.

Let us look some 50 miles to the south, where another ship is moving through the night.

THE SECOND SHIP is the French line the Ville du Havre, in 1873 the largest passenger vessel in the world. Examine the scene on board.

At 7 p.m. the 89 first-class passengers sit down to dine. The saloon is remarkably spacious. There are marble pillars; there are ornate, gilded mirrors on the walls.

The mood at dinner is gay. At last the passengers make for their cabins and state-rooms. Someone picks out an air from Weber on the saloon's piano, then stops. One by one the bright lamps are dimmed.

At 1 a.m. the liner is moving at nine knots. Its passengers sleep in the hope that they will soon see France. They do not know about the third ship.

THE THIRD SHIP is not far away. It is a sailing ship, bound for America. Its hull is built of strong iron. Its name: the Loch Earn.

He was tough

The captain of the Loch Earn is William Robertson, a tough Presbyterian Scotsman. He has been known to pick up two seamen, one in each hand, and shake them in rage. Discipline is good on the Loch Earn.

It is 1.50 a.m., not quite four bells. The Loch Earn's look-out sights what seems to be a star low in the sky. It turns red, and he sees a steamer.

The law of the sea aims: steam must give way sail. The third mate orders a to swing a red light at the bows. But he keeps Loch Earn on its course.

The other ship is near now. Its topsails are wing above its two funnels. The Loch Earn they watch in amazement, waiting for a turn aside. Instead it jolts swings across the Loch Earn's bows. The sharp puff the sailing ship shears the steamer's thin plating.

Never kn

Within 10 minutes every living thing on the Loch Earn is dead. It is the largest steamer vessel afloat. It came seen at all. It is already slowly down towards ocean bed a mile below.

What happened those 10 desperate minutes?

It was never known sure. It seems that the ship's prow smashed into the side of the cabins, and wounding everyone there. Survivors said heard a dreadful chorus screaming from the decks. One thing is certain. The crew there was no.

Sailors fought for the boats. And, in cases, the sailors won. It seemed to be a wave of across the decks of the Loch Earn. But it was not a wave. It was the ocean closing (the ship as it sank).

In the icy water and women clinging to the sides of the ship. The Loch Earn had not only been rescued by the darkness.

A U.S. judge died. A stowaway was cured.

THREE SHIPS AND A LEGEND... WAS THERE A ROCK LOOMING IN THE ATLANTIC?

Captain Robertson was honest, but without much reason. Two days at the most and his ship would sink, hundreds of miles from land. But the boats of the Loch Earn were barely sufficient to carry its own small crew.

Such was the prospect as the terrible night wore on. Then came dawn. And with dawn, in that deserted Atlantic waste, the impossible happened.

A large, square-masted ship appeared some three miles off. It came nearer. Soon its name could be read by means of a spyglass. It was the Trimountain.

It was just six hours since, in fear of a phantom rock, Captain Urquhart had started his crew by changing course.

Coincidence?

Captain Urquhart took the survivors on his ship and brought them safely to England. Captain Robertson kept the Loch Earn afloat until his crew were able to abandon her in safety.

And the Barenetha Rock? We do not know whether it ever existed. But we know that its name alone, beating in the mind of Captain William Urquhart, led on that mysterious night 84 years ago to the saving of almost 90 lives.

Was it just a coincidence? Or was it—as author Rogers now suggests—some kind of telepathy which translated the despair of those people struggling in the ocean into Urquhart's sudden fear of a phantom rock?

William Urquhart had his own explanation. He remembered how he had set out a day late. He remembered the fear which set him off course. He did not talk about telepathy. He called it Providence.

Gay Francesca

Rome. FOR six days, the village of Roghudi, in Calabria, was without a mayor, without a schoolmistress, with a parish priest and without a chief of police.

For the mayor, 40-year-old Pietro Nucera, kidnapped the schoolmistress, pretty, plump, dark-haired Francesca Zavattieri, aged 25.

The parish priest, who happens to be the uncle of the mayor, chased after them to marry them. And the chief of police joined in the chase—to free the girl and arrest the kidnapper.

The mayor was found a short distance from the cave and he, too, stated that Francesca had gone with him of her own free will. He was set free.

Francesca has returned to her parents. But the parish priest, 69-year-old, bespectacled Don Francesco Nucera, did not know the couple had been found, and was last reported to be looking for them on the craggy mountains.

The couple? They'll soon be married.

SEEDED PLAYERS IN MEN'S SINGLES SURVIVE HEAVY PRESSURE

But Two Fall Out In Women's Singles At Wimbledon

London, June 27.

Seeded players at Wimbledon survived heavy pressure today when the Men's Singles third round reduced the original star-studded field of 128 to 16.

The going was even more tough in the Women's Singles, two seeded players being eliminated today, leaving in the fourth round only the top five of the original eight seeded girls.

To the sidelines went Britain's Angela Mortimer and Czechoslovakia's Vera Puzajova to join Australia's Mrs Thelma Long who passed out in the first round.

Defending Champion Lew Hoad, of Australia, was made to chase around in the fierce heat for more than an hour by 21-year-old John Lesch, another useful product from Los Angeles, California, the nursery of American tennis.

Hoad won 6-3, 9-7, 6-4, but his display was far from inspiring. Some of his shots were as magnificent and powerful as ever but too often the burly Australian netted simple volleys with an open court before him. Maybe he underestimated the fighting qualities of the crew-cropped American who was untroubled in his own country and unknown in Europe.

WARMEST APPLAUSE

Australian Neale Fraser, seeded fifth, had a long five-setter against Britain's leading player Mike Davies before a capacity Centre Court crowd. Fraser won 6-2, 9-7, 6-4, 1-6, 6-2. The warmest applause of the week greeted a tremendous rally by Davies when he left Fraser's shoulders he served a delivery to ramp through the third and fourth sets. But the Welshman crumpled dramatically in the third game of the decider, losing his service to love with four successive errors.

The two remaining seeded Americans, Vic Seixas (Sixth) and Herbie Flam (Seventh), both seeded sets. Seixas won 6-2, 6-2, 5-7, 6-3 against Koshi Kamo, the first Japanese challenger for the men's title since the war. The stocky Japanese was under constant pressure from Seixas' powerful net attack but overcame his early nervousness to win the third set on merit.

Flam had a shock before beating Belgium's Jackie Brichant 1-6, 6-2, 6-1. The Belgian, with a penetrating service and aggressive net play, hustled the American into numerous errors to take the first set easily. Then Flam marshalled his forces and skillfully lobbed Brichant to the baseline where he kept him hopelessly chasing precision drives to the corners.

Sven Davidson, Europe's main hope from Sweden who is seeded fourth, and Australian Mervyn Rose, seeded eighth, reached round four without much difficulty. The smoothest win among the seeded men was again achieved by Ashley Cooper, handsome Australian Champion, who gained more supporters by the confident, easy way he swept aside France's Robert Haillet 6-0, 6-2, 6-4. The 20-year-old Cooper is seeded to meet Hoad in the final.

CONTROLLED TENNIS

Davidson, with controlled tennis, beat the big, swarthy American Sid Schwartz 6-1, 6-4, 7-5, and Rose's subtlety shot overcame blond Martin Frosch, of Switzerland, 6-2, 6-4, 6-2.

Unseeded American Miss Karol Fageros, blonde glamour girl of the 1957 Wimbledon tournament, and Miss Sheila Armstrong, 17-year-old former British junior Champion, did the giant killing in the women's third round.

Miss Fageros, 23, from Miami, Florida, toppled the seeded Miss Angela Mortimer, 26, who gained top ranking in Britain at the end of last season. The slim Devonshire girl has been under the cloud of ill health during the past 18 months but she recently declared herself to be fully fit.

Miss Mortimer's game is based on precision driving, but her touch was completely away on the fast Centre Court turf and she went down 6-3, 4-6, 6-3, in a match which did not reach great heights.

Miss Armstrong won 6-4, 1-6, 6-1, against Mrs Puzajova, the eighth-seeded player, in a court battle.

The story of the Indian doubles players defeat by the Americans, Franks and Green, was a story of mischances and lapses.

They were expected to win and they gave promise of doing so by taking the first set with ease at 6-4, having broken through the American's service in the first game, after which they held their service to win the set.

The second set looked as if it would follow a similar pattern, when the Indian players captured Franks' service to lead 4-3, but Kumar and Krishnan allowed themselves to be caught at 5-5 when they lost their service, leading 5-4, and had two set points.

TURNING POINT

This was the turning point in the match. This seemed to unnerve Krishnan and Kumar and they lost the third set at 3-6, through lack of concentration. They might have saved the match in the fourth set when they led 4-1 but thereafter they did not win a game, their opponents reeling off five games in a row to take the set and the match.

The last set was lost mainly through Krishnan's errors. He fell away badly in the ninth game, by missing an easy volley and double faulting at a crucial point.

In the tenth and last game, he fluffed an easy drive to lose the match.

Kumar was the better player today, retrieving many lost balls and playing well. His lobbs unfortunately were not always successful due, one suspects, to a strong cross-court wind.

Playing together for the first time, Kumar of Japan and Schwartz of the United States gave a brilliant display of co-ordinated doubles play when they defeated the Brazilians, Fernandes and Ribeiro.

Their young Brazilian opponents could do little against this combination.

Kamo's tennis tended to vary from the flashes of a great champion to the flagrant mistakes of a beginner. His great weakness was his service. American Junior Champion, Miss Arnold, meanwhile, suffered an unexpected defeat at the hands of Rose Maria Reyes of Mexico.

The Men's Doubles meanwhile afforded a near sensation this evening when the American Davis Cup team of Vic Seixas and Hoad, who had been held off from victory through five sets by a practically unknown British pair, Dennis Hughes and Gerry Oakley.

Number five court was packed as the Britons, after holding their own 3-3 in the final set, finally fell out at 6-3, 6-4, 1-6, 2-6, 6-4.

Sixteen players remained in the men's Singles Championship at Wimbledon tonight—seven Australians, four Americans, two Swedes, two Britons and a Venezuelan.

Fraser (Australia) and Patty (United States), Anderson (Australia) and Seixas (United States), Wilson (Britain) and Davidson (Sweden), Pimental (Venezuela) and Rose (Australia), Emerson (Australia) and Hoad (Australia).

Three of the 16, the Champion Hoad, the number two Cooper and the number four Davidson, have not yet lost a single set. Of the remainder, Fraser has had the hardest time—today, for example, he had to play five sets before beating Britains young Mike Davies.

In the Women's Singles competition, of the seeded players only the top five remain at the end of the fourth day. Australia's Thelma Long, seeded 8th, fell out on Wednesday. Britain's Angela Mortimer, number 7, and the Czechoslovakian, Vera Puzajova, number 8, lost their matches today.

Miss Puzajova's elimination was the most sensational exploit of a 17-year-old—Sheila Armstrong of Britain—whose aggressive game was more suited to the speed of the grass court.

Miss Mortimer fell to America's Miss Karol Fageros, "Pin-Up" of the 1957 Championships.

Three Riders Eliminated In Tour De France Race

Granville, June 27.

In boiling heat, Andre Darrigade won the first stage of the Tour De France cycling race over 201 kilometres from Nantes to here today.

Competing against 120 riders split into 10 teams and representing the cream of continental riders from Italy, France, Switzerland, Belgium, Holland and Spain, Darrigade won the final sprint in front of Spain's Miguel Poblet.

During the first stage of the 22-day stage race which winds clockwise round France and thrives into Belgium and Spain, main riders took it easy in the main pack. The race lasts for 24 days with two rest days.

There was one feeble break-away at the start, but the main part of the "chain gang" gradually crept up and everyone was carefully stacked back into the pack.

OTHER RIDERS

Darrigade with Italy's Gastone Nencini then went out and were joined by two other riders. They forced the pace over barren Brittany up on to the roads of the Cherbourg peninsula.

Garfield Sobers, the 30-year-old Barbados left-hander, scored a century for the West Indies cricketers here today, helping them defeat an all-Holland XI by 185 runs in their one-day match.

The West Indies scored 300 and dismissed their opponents for 123. Sobers hit four sixes and 13 fours in a free-scoring but chameleonic innings of 101 in 84 minutes.

John Goddard made 80, including nine fours, and Roland Kramohut 66 with one six and seven fours.

N. Leetink bowled his medium-pace deliveries well to take four wickets for 35 runs. Dennis Atkinson had the best West Indies bowling figures with six for 54.

Top score for the Dutch side was made by Wim van Maanen, who baffled with stitches in a cut below his eye received when he was hit by the ball during the West Indies innings, and made 30.—Reuter.

Diplomat's Daughter To Give A Recital

By JANE ROBERTS

ONE of the nice things about Hongkong is that you don't see the same faces too often.

It's the newcomers who give this place the interest that is making it "The Place" to go to in the Far East.

A very recent visitor here is a charming pianist whose father in his capacity as a diplomat has given her the opportunity for travelling all over the world.

Miss Yi-An Chang has come here fresh from successful concerts in Europe where she has been combining her chosen profession, music.

As a result of winning a John Hay Whitney Opportunity Fellowship, which is an American scholarship usually awarded to non-Americans, Miss Yi-An Chang was able to give concerts in Germany and other countries in Europe while carrying on advanced studies in piano technique.

Small, graceful, young and as yet unmarried, Miss Yi-An Chang gives a deceptively shy impression. Her reticence hides a keen intelligence and a quick appreciation of new conditions.

CHARITY CONCERT

She was born in Shanghai, and she went to America when quite young and has had little contact with her own people.

Since coming here however she has realized the miserable conditions in which so many of them live and hopes to be able to give a charity concert, the proceeds of which will go towards the relief work being carried on in the Colony.

Her programme on Saturday night will include some of the music she played over the air on Wednesday evening, Bach's "Jesu Joy of Man's Desiring", Schumann's "Scenes of Childhood" and three pieces by the Spanish composer Albéniz. In addition will be the difficult "Thirty Variations" by Beethoven and the light though melancholy Scherzo in B minor by Chopin.

The second half of the concert, before the Albéniz compositions, starts with a Theme and Variations by the modern composer Joia and music by the more formal Debussy and Poulenc.

Harry Odell is sponsoring Miss Yi-An Chang's visit to Hongkong and I understand he has booked several more celebrities, as well as some talented newcomers, to entertain us in the near future.

The Gentle Way

by GORDON HUNG

THE TECHNIQUES OF JUDO by Shinzo Takagaki and Harold E. Sharp. Charles E. Tuttle Company, Tokyo, U.S$2.75.

THIS new book is one of the most comprehensive studies ever published in English of this Japanese and now international sport, which is only 80 years old.

With 550 illustrations, the book is an authoritative manual giving step-by-step explanations, practical pointers, and thorough analyses of all the most commonly used techniques or waza of judo.

What better qualified person could write such a book than Tokyo-born, Shinzo Takagaki, internationally-known judo expert. Holder of the black belt (eighth grade) or hachid-dan, he is now chief examiner for grade holders at the Kodokan Judo Institute.

DISCHARGED

Two other defendants, Lam Look-cheung, 37, and Ho Cho, 52, also living on board the ship, who pleaded not guilty to both charges, were also discharged when the prosecution offered no evidence against them.

HISTORY

Harold E. Sharp, third grade Kodokan and now director of the Judo Club (Judo Institute of Los Angeles) assisted the 65-year-old master in presenting the book in English.

Introducing the book, Teacher Takagaki outlines the history of the sport and how it took over from its forerunner, jujitsu, as the need for hand-to-hand combat diminished.

Judo, which means "the gentle way", utilizes the very best of the jujitsu techniques, eliminating the harmful ones and modifying others so that they can be practised safely.

The three main objectives of the art as listed by the author are development of the body; skill in contest; and mental and moral development.

BALANCE

He also deals with the contest and grading system with a penetrating discussion of the principle of balance and minimum effort that is basic to a scientific understanding of the sport.

Backed by more than forty years' experience, the old master puts into his book the best of his techniques developed over the decades. His methods, the standard throwing techniques or uchi-waza and lying and grappling techniques or ne-waza, are fully dealt with from every aspect of the sport.

However, he deals briefly with his third method, the striking technique or atemi-waza, because he says "it is never practised in judo matches today." But, he adds, it is a good means of self-defence.

SLIGHT FAULT

The whole book, which is on art paper, will capture the interest of all even those who profess no interest in the sport itself.

Its eye-catching cover picture, graphic action photos and illustrations inside make this publication more a picture instructor than textbook. An appropriate name for the book could be "Teach Yourself Judo Through Pictures."

What writing there is in the manual is lucid, simple and tells the student what to do in a few words.

The only slight fault of this publication is the arrangement of the illustrations. Sometimes they go from left to right and then suddenly change from right to left. But all the pictures are numbered.

SHADOW JUDO?

About the only thing the book does not supply the student with is an opponent for practice.

This book is an invaluable introduction for the beginner as well as a complete repository for the advanced judo-man and is recommended to the enthusiast.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Traffic Estimates

Whatever method is used, predictions cannot easily be made. To do so one must have a considerable change in the circumstances which would estimate of 88,000 registered vehicles in 10 years' time, and be prepared to prove that reported recently. As you say, it is a probability and not a possibility. We cannot not indicate what method was used to arrive at this figure, and thus risk chaos and confusion. There is, for example, a possibility that we are all going to get poorer and will not be able to afford to buy cars, or that Government is going to impose restrictions on their import, or make it more difficult to get licences. Against these possibilities is the trend in other countries for the ratio of cars to population to rise.

However, in the absence of any tendency which we can accept the conclusions which can logically be drawn from the fact that Government must also be prepared to accept these conclusions, however, unpleasant they may be, and take adequate measures to prevent the extreme congestion which, in 10 or 20 years, will otherwise be inevitable. For this will not be merely a matter of inconvenience for the private motorist. It will mean that all forms of transportation on which our economic life depends will slow down and eventually become immobilised.

K. A. WATSON.

Refugees

Sir,—In reference to your back page article "HK Churches Move on Refugees" I have a very good suggestion to make: why doesn't the British Government cut its ridiculous defence programme by half, and use the spare millions to provide housing for our refugees. After all, this is a British Colony, and surely we should not have to ask for charity from other nations. Also, an obvious advantage would be that this measure is certainly superior (to arms) in the fight against local Communism.

Can anyone answer this? When will the Western powers stop jeering at the East (for its treatment of the poor) and start helping to clear up their own back streets?

C. T. BROWN, Causeway Bay.

10,000 See Tomb

About 10,000 people have inspected the 2,000-year-old tomb at Li Ching Uk Village since it was opened to the public on Friday, June 21.

For the first three days after the opening, long queues formed outside. Since then, however, interest has dwindled and the number of visitors has been moderate.

Po Leung Kuk COULD TAKE MORE

HK Social Service Council's View

The Po Leung Kuk could house more cases than are at present being taken, a statement issued by the HK Council of Social Service said today.

"The Council hopes that full use will be made of the organisation's facilities not only for short term care of the destitute but for longer training and care, which in the case of adolescents is of first importance," the statement said.

"The Committee of the Po Leung Kuk are conscious of this problem, and most anxious to extend and improve their work," it said.

"During a recent visit to the Po Leung Kuk (Refuge for the Innocent) which is a member organisation affiliated to the Hongkong Council of Social Service, it was gratifying to see how well ordered and operated this institution is.

"The Superintendent, Miss Kan, who was trained in America, showed the Secretary of the Council, Mrs. M. I. Palmer, round the spacious home, which gives refuge to small babies who have been found abandoned in Hongkong and Kowloon, and to babies whose parents have been unable for some reason (illness, imprisonment or inability to look after their children).

"It also houses and looks after children of kindergarten age, girls and boys up to 12 years and older girls.

SCHOOL

"Some of the girls are unmarried mothers and sometimes their babies are also at the Po Leung Kuk, where in each case the mother is allowed to tender her baby herself.

"Another building houses the school, which gives primary and vocational training. Classes are given which include newcomers constantly, which makes an ordinary curriculum out of the question.

"The Po Leung Kuk was founded eighty years ago, constituted under Government Ordinance, its aims being to look after those of the most destitute women and children.

"Cases taken at present are usually children or dependents of their mothers who have been imprisoned for other crimes, delinquent and uncontrollable children and, of course, those found abandoned.

"Some of the children are admitted with physical malformation, this being often a reason for their being abandoned by their parents. Cases are admitted from voluntary agencies who approach the Secretary for Chinese Affairs and the Social Welfare Office to find accommodation and help for them.
